Introduction

In 1938 the New York Public Library published A Calendar of Cases of Witchcraft in Scotland 1510-1727 by G.F. Black, which was reprinted without amendment in 1971. It consisted of a list of extracts from printed sources arranged in rough chronological order. Up till now it has been the only piece of systematic research on Scottish witchcraft available.

The present compilation was made possible by the award of a grant by the Social Science Research Council ¹ for a three-year period of research into "Witchcraft Accusations and Prosecutions in Scotland". It is intended to replace Black as a work of reference, for what Black's Calendar, valuable as it was, did not do, was to systematise the material other than by year, or indicate to what extent it was comprehensive; to what extent defective.

Prosecutions for Witchcraft in Scotland

In Scotland witchcraft was a criminal offence from 1563, when it was included in statute law,² until 1736, when it was repealed together with the English Witchcraft Act of 1604.³ After 1736 it was possible only to prosecute for 'pretended witchcraft' and to impose a maximum penalty of a year's imprisonment. There were known executions for witchcraft in Scotland before 1563, but the process was obscure and these cases are not included in the present Source Book.

The great majority of prosecutions and executions for witchcraft took place between 1590 and 1680. Before 1590, when James VI personally conducted a large scale sorcery trial, and after 1680, cases were rare and isolated, apart from the Paisley outbreak of 1697. Within the period 1590 to 1680 there were four intensive outbreaks of prosecutions. The first was from 1590 to 1597. Very little is known about this outbreak because the prosecutions took place locally, but we know from casual references ¹ and from the edict of the Privy Council which finally suppressed it ² that it was very extensive. The other three were 1628 to 1630, 1649, and 1661-62. Apart from these peaks, the whole period 1640-1662 saw a large number of prosecutions.³

The prosecutions were most frequent in particular areas: the east coast and environs from Aberdeen to the Borders; inland areas around Edinburgh, Stirling, and Lanark; the Orkneys, and towards the end of the period, Ayrshire and Galloway. This correlates partly, but not completely, with those areas of Scotland which were fully administered by a system of kirk sessions, presbyteries, secular courts, and access to central authorities in Edinburgh.

There were a variety of ways in which a witch could be prosecuted, and this is one of the factors which makes the researcher's task a difficult one. The treason trials of 1590 to 1591 were conducted in special courts of justiciary frequently presided over by the king. The trials which took place, mainly in Aberdeenshire, Fife, and the Lothians, from 1590-1597, and whose records are mainly lost or contained in family papers, were conducted in local courts under the general commission for trying witches issued by the Privy Council in 1591.⁴ When this was withdrawn in 1597 the Privy Council reserved for itself the right to consider each application for a commission to try a witch. Penalties were to be imposed on those who prosecuted witches without their authority. In the confused and flexible system of criminal justice which operated in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries this does not mean that the control of the Privy Council over witchcraft trials was total; it does mean that Privy Council commissions to local landowners and officials became the commonest single way of trying a witch. The second commonest way was through the Court of Justiciary and its circuit courts, and the least common was through commissions of Parliament. During the second half of 1649 however, the Committee of Estates issued commissions for one hundred and fifty seven trials. All these ways were more or less legal: legality itself was an elusive concept closely related to power struggles between various courts and organs of government. There are, however, quite apart from the period 1590 to 1597, enough references to executions of witches whose cases never reached the central authorities to raise queries about the proportion of dubiously legal to official executions, and about the validity of any figures and projections for the total numbers of witches tried and executed. X

The Source Material

The compilers have concentrated on the central sources partly because they have never been used systematically before, partly because in the early days of the research project we assumed, wrongly, that in this way we could collect all the executions.

There are three main groups of sources for the central government prosecutions for witchcraft. The first is that for the Court of Justiciary; primarily the Books of Adjournal, which are the manuscript minutes of trials in that court. These are held in the Scottish Record Office in Edinburgh. They have a manuscript index for much of the period. There are gaps, some appeared after and some before the index was made; from July 1650 to October 1652 and from July 1655 to June 1661. The National Library of Scotland has abridged Books of Adjournal which cover some of these gaps. In addition there are, in the Record Office, unindexed boxes of pre-trial material. Some, but not all, of these boxes have a dittay roll within them with a list of crimes, but these refer to crimes which the official concerned wanted tried, and do not always relate to material in the box. Sample examination has produced papers which refer to witchcraft cases which never came to trial. There may well be more in these boxes. There are also the Circuit Court minutes; the records of the travelling justiciary. These are sometimes bound up with the Books of Adjournal, but it is not clear to what extent these records are complete, and some witchcraft trials of the circuit courts may have been lost to us. Some of this High Court material is available in print; notably in Robert Pitcairn, Criminal Trials in Scotland; G.F. Black, Some Unpublished Witchcraft Trials, and W.G. Scott-Moncrieff's edition of an abstract of the Books of Adjournal.¹

The second main source, containing the largest number of cases, is the Privy Council. The Privy Council minutes are available in print up to 1691. They are complete in so far as they include all the cases discussed. Some of the accounts may be truncated, but a sample examination of witchcraft cases in manuscript suggests that these are usually printed entire. But as in the case of the Justiciary Records there is unindexed material. This has been left unexplored by this research team. They cannot be used cost-effectively for individual cases until they have been surveyed by the archivists. They are more extensive than those for the High Court.

The third main group of central sources is the Parliamentary records and those associated with them. In fact only a few witchcraft cases were processed through Parliamentary commissions, and these can be found in the printed Acts of the Parliament of Scotland. The manuscript records of the Committee of Estates, whose witch-processing activities in 1649 have been referred to, are also available in the Scottish Record Office.

The defects of the material lie partly in what is actually missing. There are hardly any records for the extensive witch-hunt of 1590-1597. There are the gaps in the Justiciary records which have been mentioned, and clearly many of the background process papers have been lost. One of the biggest gaps is that there is no feedback on the fate of the witches for whose trial Privy Council commissions were granted, except in the rare cases of appeal procedures. It is an understatement to say that Scotland was not a fully bureaucratised society in this period, and the horseman from the Burgh of Ayr, having extracted his commission for a local trial, had no motive to ride back again and report the results. Such records as survive for these trials by local landowners (which were by far the commonest type of trial), are likely to be found in private family papers and sheriff court records, which until 1745 were likewise the private property of hereditary sheriffs.

The material which does survive is also defective in terms of the type of information presented. The fate of the witch is often unreported, and likewise his or her marital and social status. Never, even in the processes, do we get an account of the type of questions asked, and the way in which confessions are extracted has to be inferred. In these respects the Scottish records are very often much less complete and informative than continental or English records. Record-keeping itself, even at central governmental level, seems to have been an under-systematised and undervalued activity compared with contemporary standards elsewhere.

In theory, however, these central records, even if they do not tell us much about them, should yield all the witches who were put on trial. The local records should contain only the early procedures against these witches, plus the witches who were dealt with by the kirk sessions through minor punishments or not proceeded against at all. In fact it is clear that an unknown number of witches were executed without going through the 'legitimate' channels. Black's Calendar refers to some of these, and other researchers in Dundee¹ and Galloway² have uncovered more cases of this nature. In addition there is the case of Orkney which had devolved administrative powers and operated rather like a separate kingdom during this period.

The local records are essential for an understanding of the origins of witch labelling and witch accusation. There is a good deal of local material contained within the pre-trial processes which relates to the content of neighbours' original accusations against the witch, but these need to be supplemented by information about the type of case which never got as far as being taken to court. Scottish local records are far more defective than the central ones in the sense that their survival has been haphazard, and there are few complete records, but where they exist they are extremely rich in social information.

The main types of local source material are kirk sessions, and presbytery records, sheriff courts, baron courts, burgh councils, and family papers. Some of these are available in the Scottish Record Office. Others are kept locally.

Coverage of the Material

The members of the research project have covered all the central sources described. It would probably be possible for further researchers to uncover further names of accused witches in the pre-trial material, and material relating to the Privy Council cases, but in the opinion of the compilers of this volume it would not be cost-effective until archivists have done some classification and indexing. That does not mean that there is no work to be done on the central records. As has been suggested, the central records also provide valuable information on local witchcraft, and for some of the cases, particularly during the major outbreaks, there is enough material to make a detailed analysis possible. So far as the local material goes we have covered only samples. Our view is that while it would probably be possible to add considerably to the list of witches by intensive work on small areas, it would again probably not be cost-effective, unless the researcher were to concentrate on the major years of persecution. There is a substantial piece of work still to be done collating local and central records for the years 1649 and 1661-62 for example. So far as other years go, however, it would be possible to read a manuscript kirk session register extending over a considerable period and find less than half a dozen cases which had any connection with witchcraft or charming.

In the absence of any previous systematic examination of this type of record, it seems that the most interesting and productive way forward at the present time would be to analyse individual records in their entirety. In this way it would be possible to lay out the apparatus of social control in general, and put witchcraft into its perspective among the other crimes and misdemeanours: at local level: fornication, adultery, foul speaking, sabbathbreaking, and drunkenness. An SSRC supported survey of criminal sources for early modern Scotland is being undertaken (academic session 1976-77) by B. Lenman and G. Parker, Department of History, University of St. Andrews.

Plan of the Book

k A Source-Book of Scottish Witchcraft is divided up in the following way. In Section I all cases of witchcraft known to the compilers are divided into groups. Five of these groups represent the type of court in which the case was either tried or the individual mentioned.¹ These are (1) Court of Justiciary, (2) Circuit Courts, (3) Parliamentary Commissions, (4) Committee of Estates, (5) Privy Council Commissions. The sixth group consists of other known cases. Within each group the cases are listed in chronological order, in so far as this is possible given that certain cases were dealt with over a considerable period of time. Each case is numbered and in the other sections of the Source Book the case is referred to by this number in order that the reader can trace it back to the original source material. In these grouped lists the following information is given: name, place (usually the witch's area of residence, sometimes the place of trial), date (usually of the court case, i.e. date of trial in the Court of Justiciary; date of granting of commission in the case of the Privy Council), sex, marital status where known, outcome of trial where known, primary source, and whether the case was already known to Black or has been discovered since then. This is partly to make it easy for readers to refer back to Black where appropriate for his brief quotations from the sources, which are lacking in our lists, and for his comments; partly to indicate the amount of new material contained in the present volume. What the lists do not include is the social and economic status of the accused, because this information is available only for a small proportion of the cases. The cases for which this is known are analysed separately in the collection of tables.

The cases in the last group which are also listed chronologically, consist of those which are recorded but are not known to the central records or on which there is further material elsewhere. In this group there are three main types of case: (1) those that one would not have expected to reach the central records because they were accounted for locally and given minor punishment or let off, (2) those who were executed and who therefore ought properly to have appeared in central records, (3) those whose fate is unknown and the question therefore of whether they ought to have been in central records unanswerable. In addition there are cases already mentioned in the other lists to which there are further references, and some duplications which only became apparent with the completion of the index.

It should be noted that the numbers in Section I represent cases and not individual witches. Some witches were charged more than once or in more than one court. In the index of named witches at the end of the Source Book, where there is more than one reference to what is without doubt the same person these references are collated. Where there is any doubt about the identification, the name is replicated as appropriate. It should also be noted that there was no orthodox orthography in this period. Some scribes spelt the same name in different ways on the same page. The spelling of place and personal names in the lists is intended to be as it was in the source from which it was taken.

Section II of the Source Book contains analyses of the cases in terms of sex, marital status, social status, the proportion executed, acquitted, and unknown over the period, presented in table form. Section III consists of sample transcripts of previously unpublished material. Section IV is a list, with commentary, of primary and secondary source material.

TABLES

Note 1. The figures represent cases and not individuals, and at least 200 individuals appear in more than one source. While the figures for each court are likely to represent individuals, the totals should be treated with appropriate caution.

Note 2. The tables omit those who were merely mentioned as witches, except where otherwise stated.

THE FRASER MANUSCRIPT

The following is a transcript of pages 307-312 of James Fraser's manuscript notebook in the National Library of Scotland, Edinburgh:

"A Collection of Providential Passages Antient and Modern Forreign and Domestick", dated 1670.

Major Weir's birth, Life & death - known to the Author.

One Thomas Weir, whom I saw at Edinburgh, Anno 1660, comonly called Captain Weir, he was born in Clydsdeal, neare to Lanerk anno 1607, the sone of one John Weir first a plough maker and afterwards a farmer. about the yeare of the Massacre of the Kingdom, was made seriant, and, about the 45 turned lieutenant. in the 48 he came to Scotland; and Edinburgh being ye Metra politan and Center of the Kingdom. Thomas Weir made acquaintance with many, & not the worst, personating a deale of gravity & mortification; frequented sermons frequently till in end he went under the notice & got the repute of a singular professor. at Length, he got a Charge over the waiters att ye ports of the City, being a check to them, about the year 1650. he got ye place of Major in the town guard and so was ever after called Maior Weir; his garb was still a cleck and somequhat dark, & never went without his staffe. he was a tall black man; & ordinarily looked down to the ground a grim Countenance and a bigg nose. at lenght he became so Notarly regarded among the presbiterian strict sect. that iff 4 mett together. be sure maior Weir was one, and at privat meetings prayed to admiration which made many of that stamp to Court his Converse; he never married But lived in a privat Lodging with his Sister Grisel Weir. many resorted to his house to heare him pray & join with him, but it was observed that he could not officiat in any holy duty without the black staff or rod in his hand leaning upon it, which made those who heard him pray admire his flood in prayer. his ready extemporary expression. his heavenly gesture; so that he was thought more Angell than Man. and was tearmed by some the holy Sisters ordinarily Angelicall Thomas. and yet how amazing is it this vile Counterfit was a Divil and varlot. and was in Compact with the Divil, upwards of 50 year in his service. From whom he had got the gift of utterance, and this enchanted staffe, for by it he was inabled to pray, to Comit filthinesse not to be named, for no woman (when he pleased) with whom he spoke or touched her cloeathes or skin but would yeld to act whordom with. even women of singular reputation & chaste, & have not been mistresses of themselves in Major Weir's Company. by the use of this staff, he was enabled to conciliate the favour of any, to reconcile nighbours, even husband & wife when at variance, which purchased him veneration with all. & brought him vast gain & profit and yet he lived and cohabited in Incest with his own Sister & also in Bestiality, On a Session day he went out of Edinburgh to a place called New mills to a solemn meeting and by the way he lighted of his mare & in to a buish where he committed bestiality with her. a Country maid from an obscure place espied him & came trembling to the Minister & declared it to him in Secret. the Minister told it was Calumny upon a saint, that had such a gossell life as Ma. Tho. Weir did who was a prominent man. he had so charmed the Clergy as well as the laity. But the poor women was whipt for affirming the truth because there were no wittnesses. in short this villan lived all his time in horrid wickednesse, especially the yeares that he abode at Edinburgh. at length like the wild ass was found in his mouth. Coming one day as his custom was to view the waiters he found some of them in a Cellar drinking and neglecting their charge. after a gentle reproach one of them replied, that some of their number being upon duty, the rest had retired to drink with their old friend and acquaintance Mr. Burn, at which word Maior Weir started back, and casting an eye upon him repeated his the word Burn 4 or 5 times & going home came not abroad for a long time after. it was observed by some that going to Liberton sometimes, he shunned to step over that water brook which is ordinarily called Liberton Burn but went about to Shun it, but this men have coniectured & not a Miss that he had been advised to beware of a Burn or some other thing which the equivocall word might signify - as Burn in a fire, if so he hath forseen his day approach nigh. a year before he discovered his imposture he took a sore sickness during which time he spake to all the visited him like an angel and Came frequently abroad again. A while after this, he tooke some dreadfull tortours of Conscience, & the terrours of the Almighty being upon his Spirit, Called in several Nighboures to his house to whom he confessed and that most willingly his particular sins, which he was guilty of with sad aggravations which bred amazement to all persons, they Coming from a man of so high repute of Religion and piety. he ended with this remarkable expression, byfore God sayes he I have not told the hundred part of that I can Say more & am guilty of these same very abohminations he confessed before the Judges likewayes, but after this, he would never to his dying hour confesse any more which might have been for the glorifying of God & the edification of others, but remained stupit, having no Confidence to looke any man in the face, or to open his eyes. When two of the Magistrates of Edinburgh Came to his house in the night time, to Carry him to prison, they asked if he had any mony to secure, he said. None. His sister said there was; whereupon there was found in panells here and there, to the value of five dollars in parcels, which they tooke up. His sister advised the Magistrates to secure his staffe especially, which they did. Thereafter he and his Sister both were carried away & secured in the Tolebouth, and The Balioses returning home went into a Tavern at the west bow neare to Weir's house, they mony was put into a bag & the Clouts thrown into the fire, which after an unusual manner made a Circling and dancing in the fire, There was another Clout found with some hard thing in it, which also they threw into the fire, it looked like a root which Circled and sparkled like gunpowder & Passing up the funnell of the chimney it gave a crak like a little Cannon to the amazement of all that were present; The foresaid mony was taken by one of the two Balioses to his own house & laid by in his Closet, during which time his wife & the rest of the family were affrighted with a terrible noise within the study, like the falling of a house, three times successively, his wife knocking gave a fearfull Cry, saying my deare are you alive, the Baliose came out unaffraid & said he heard nothing whether he concealed this upon the account that his wife was with Child or otherways is uncertain. The mony was presently sent away to the other baliofs house where was also heare some terrible disturbance, but in broken expressions. During the time of his imprisonment he was never willing to be spoken to & when the Ministers of the City offered to pray for him, he would Cry out in fury. Torment me no more for I am tormented already. one Minister asking him if he should pray for him he replied not at all. The man in a Zealous Anger said I will pray for you in spite of your teeth & the Divil your master too. so he prayed in his heareing & the wittnesses observed that Weir stared weildly & was senseless as a bruit all the while. Another asked him if he thought there was a God, he said I know not. & the other replied. O man the Argument that moves me to think there is a God, is thyselfe for what else moved thee to inform the world of thy wicked life. But Weir answered Let me alone. When he peremptorily forbad one of his own parish Ministers to pray one demanded if he would have one of the Presbyterian persuasion to pray. He answered Sir you are now all alike to me. then said the Minister to him, I will pray with you, do it not said he upon your peril lookeing up to the beams of the house. but prayer was made so much the more heartily because the Company present expected some vision, it is observable that in things Common he was pertinent enough but when anything about Almighty God & his Souls Condition Came about he would shrugg & rub his breast saying torment me not before the time; at last he was sentenced to be burnt; And when the account of this was given him, he stood mute and stupid; when he was at the Stake to be burnt, the City Ministers called to a cunning man there looking on a Presbyterian, which persuasion Weir was formally deemed to be, to speake to him, but no sooner he opened his mouth than the vile wretch made a sign with his hand & his head to be silent. When the roape was about his neck to prepare him for the fire, he was bid say Lord be mercifull to me, but he answered let me alone, I will not I have lived as a beast & I must die as a beast. the Fire was kindled, he dropped a little after into the flames. a sad spectacle to behold. & shortly after his blaik staff was cast into this fire, with him, whatever incantation was in it. the persones present, aver that it gave rare turnings & was long a burning as also himself. it is said that he was much troubled in prison, for causeing the poor woman to be scourged for affirming that he Committed bestiality going to Newmills; the same woman was present spectator to his fatall end & glorified God solemnly. his incest with his own sister was first when she was a young maid, the place where this abommation was Committed remained Cursed for Contrary to nature it Continued alwas bare without grass; the Reverend Minister to whom Maior Weir

Confessed so much declared that the place lay off the rode betwixt Kirkaldy & Kinghorn upon a little hill side which he had the curiosity to go and see & found it so; things neere 40 yeares ago committed Many other horrid things he confessed which Christian eares should not be defiled with One notable remark of him I cannot omit, which I had from two persones of good fame yet liveing, at the foot of the west bow, near Weirs lodging, This gentlewoman a substantial Marchants wife, was very desirous to hear him pray, so much being spoken of his utterance, for the end, spoke to some of her nighboures, that upon he came to their house, shee might be sent for. This was done, but could he never open his mouth before her no not so much as to blisse a cup of ale, he either remaining mute or up with his staff and away. It troubled her then, but her husband and she smiles at it now but doubt Some few daes before he discovered himselfe, this Gentlewoman comeing from the Castle hill where her husbands neice was lying in of a Child about midnight perceaved about the bow head, 3 women in windowes, shouting laughing & claping their hands, the Gentlewoman went forward till just at Ma. Weirs doore, there arose as from the street a woman above the length of two ordinary females, and stepped forward, the Gentlewoman not as yet excessively feared, bid her maid step on if by the lantern they could see what she was, but hast what they could this long legged Spectre was still before them, moving her body with a vehement cachinnation and unmeasurable laughter. at this rate the two strove for plais till the giantess came to a narrow lane in the bow commonly called the Stinking Closs. full of flammy lights and a great multitude of people laughing and gasping with a hissing noise, this sight as so late a time of the night no people being in the windows; respecting the closs mad herself and her maid hasten home wishing that she might have more wittnesses. But she declared all that she saw to her family but more passionatly to her husband and then sick with feare, yet she went the next morning with her maid, to view the notor plais of the former night walk and at the closs enquired who lived there it was answered Maior Weir. The honest couple now reioicing that to Maior Weir's devotion they never said Amen Anent those visions and apparitions, in all probability have been a presage of his approaching death and of the manner of it. links and torches signifying an honourable internment which perhaps has been promised to him. There was one Minister in the City that would never be persuaded to speak with him in prison but no sooner was he dead but he was to the Tulebooth and called for his sister who had some remorse, he told her that her Brother Major Weir was burnt and how he died, she believed nothing of it, but after many attestations, she asked where his staff was. for she knew that his strength and life lay therein. he told her it was burnt with him, where-upon notwithstanding of her age, she nibliy and in a furious rage fell on her knees, uttering words horrible to be remembered, and in reseigning as she was desired, her rageing eufony closed with these words, O Sir I know he is with the Divils for with them he lived, she entreated that minister to assist her and attend her to her death, which at her violent importunity he yeelded unto though it was not his course to wait upon condemned persones. What she said in private to himself he sayes must die with him; she avouched that from her being sixteen years of age to her 56 her brother had the incestuous use of her body and then loathed her for her age she was sixty sex at this time and he when he died was about 70. the Minister asked her if she was ever with child to him? she declared with confidence he hindered that by means abominable, which she beginning to relate the Preacher stopt her. some bystanders were desirious to hear the reste, but says he Gentlemen the speculation of this iniquity is in itselife to be punished; next she was interrogat if she had any hand in her brother's Divilry. She declared but in a passive way and gave this plain instance. a firie chariot of coach as she called it, coming in to his door, at broad day, a stranger invited him and her to goo with a friend at Dalkeith 4 miles from Edinburgh. they bothe entered and went forward in their visit at which time says she one came and whispered in his ears which affected him, they returned after the same manner that they had gone out, and Weir going next day to a visit told them he had strong apprehensions that day the kings Forces were routed at Worcester which within too or three days was confirmed by the post, she affirmed that non saw the Coach but themselves. The Devil, said she hath wrought far greater Farelies in his time than this. She said she knew much of the enchanted staff. which had received from the Divil some yeares agoe, by which he was enable to do what he pleased. She oft hid it from him and because without it he could do nothing, he would threaten and vow to discover her incest fearing which she would deliver it again. Being asked the cause of her much spinning which she was famous for, she denied any assistance from the Devil, but found that she had an extraordinary facility therein. far above ordinary spinsters. for onward that when she came home after being abroad she found there was more yarn on her wheel than she left and that her weaver could not make cloth thereof for the yarn braking or falling from the wheel. Once there came a stranger to her while she was at her wheel, and proposed a way to her to make her rich, for they both lived upon alms and got enough of it. The way was this stand up and say, all Crosses and Cares goe out of this house, she answered, God forbid I say that, but let them be welcome when God sends them, after two or three visits more she asked this stranger where she dwelt she replied in the Potter Row, a street in the suburbs of that city but finding neither such a house nor such a woman I judged, said she, it was the Devil, one of my Brothers acquaintance, for I knew he had familiarity with the Devil. She was asked anent her parents? and said she was persuaded her mother was a witch, for the secretest things that wither I myselfe or any of the family could do when once a mark appeared on her brow, she could tell it to them though done at a distance, being demanded what sort of a mark it was, she answered I have some such mark myselfe when I please on my forehead, whereupon she offered to uncover her forehead, for visible satisfaction, the minister refusing to behold it, and forbidding any discovery, was earnestly requested by some spectators to allow the freedom, he yeelding she put back her head, and seeming to frown there was an exact horse-shoe shaped for nailes in her wrinkles, terrible enough I assure you to the stoutest beholder. In the morning before her execution she told the Minister she resolved to die with all the shame she could to expiate under mercy her shamefull life; this he understood to be an ingenuous confession of her sins, in opposition to her brothers despair and desprate silence, to which he did encourage her at her parting with him. She gave him hearty thanks for his pains, and shakeing and kissing his hands she repeated the same word which he bade her perform; ascending up the ladder she spake somewhat confusedly of her sins, of her brother and his enchanting staffe and with a ghastly countenance beholding a multitude of spectators, all wondering and some weeping, she spoke aloud. There are many here this day wondering and greeting for me but alais few mourns for a broken ----- at which words many seemed angry. others called to her to mind higher concerns and I have heard it said that the preacher declared he had much ado to keep a composed Countenance. The Executioner falling about his duty she prepared to die stark naked, then and not before were her words relating to shame understood, the hangman struggled with her, to keep on her cloaths. and she struggled with him to have them off; at last he was forced to throw her over open faced, which afterward he Covered, after the usuall manner with a cloath.

I set not this on record to reflect upon men of this or that persuasion. the Divil can counterfit what Religion he pleases and ordinarily a good one, true Religion can never suffer any prejudice from a hypocrit his wearing a cloak of it, more than the good angels can suffer stain from Satans transforming himselfe into an Angel of light; it is evident there is a Divil that hurries men on into sin. This maior Weir had that oppression to two Ministers that came to him in prison; There was no temptation which the Divil could propose to him but he was capable to accept of it. it is certain there is either an explicit or implicit Compact between some men and the Divil, horrible sins covered with religion, bring utter dispare at the last and desperation is hell in fiere, some men as well as Divils are tormented before the time: but let us beware that such a man's fall prove not a neck brake to us, let us idolise no man for his profession or that he is of this or that persuasion or of such a party. Let no man rest in a bare profession of Religion men in compact with the Divil may be assisted, both to preach and pray at this, vile Wizard, Weir, a precious person learned (?) of the presbiterian party. all this account I had from an eye and eare witnesse and a man of good credit and repute; Ma. Weir was brought to his dreadfull desperat and yett deserved death April 14 anno 1670 at the gallow Lie bewixt Leith and Edinburgh where he was burnt as aforesaid.

MARGARET PROVOST, MARGARET BEZOK, and MARY NICINNARICH.

The following transcription is made from a manuscript found among the miscellaneous papers of the Boyds of Trochrigg, in the University Library, Glasgow.

Precognition takin of the persones after named by warrand from the Kings advocat; at ffortross 6th october 1699.

1. The said day The Laird of Suddie adduced as witnes against Margaret Provost declared that he heard her badlie reputed and bruted as a witch, and therefore he went with his servants and pulled down the house about her ears and within a day or two therafter his gardener who was one of the servants in his company swelled as bigg as two men, and in some days more got such a voracious stomach that he would eat as much as six upon all which she being Challenged the gardener became better, and her son came to him and told him that if he would prevail with his master to give her a house again, he should be well.

Mr Thomas ffrazer minister of Suddy declared That Captain McKenzie of Suddy finding ane inconveniencie to have quearns upon his ground, which encouraged the indwellers to abstract their corns from his miln did upon a Certain day case break all the saidis quearns among which he brake that of Margaret Provost within a short time therafter, the said Captain leaping a little brook not above two foot broad fell down and wrested his legg and thigh, which did so enable him that though there was niether breach nor dislocation his thigh and legg became so extraordinarily small that for eighteen moneths time he was confyned to his bed, which being repute a supernatural advent Many did conclude the same was effectuate by the said Margaret Provost her sinistrous means and malefices but for his part he could not be positive.

James Ked in Killern informed against the said Margaret and her daughter That the said Margaret's daughter being Challenged be the said James wife for the skaith done to her by the said Margaret's hens Did tell she would kill them and if she were wronged be the daughters skill she should Challenge her as the instrument therof To which the daughter replied that if she had skill the said James wife should share therof and that thereafter the next morning his best cow failed in his plough and after that the said cow and one of his best horse dyed by ane unknown disease and that himself within a few days fell very unwell and continued so till she was publilie Challenged and thereafter she began to amend.

2. Margaret Bezok alias Kyle spouse to David Stewart in Balmaduthy declared she threatened John Sinclair using a phrase that she would quicklie overturn his cart and within a week thereafter his wife fell ill, and that she was brought to see the seek wife and touched and handled her and heard that thereafter she convalesced.

John Sinclair in Miuren declared that the said Margaret did threaten ut supra and that thereafter his wife distracted within less than a week and continued in that distemper till the said Margaret was brought to see her, and that she handled and felt his wife who thereafter grew better but continues something weak still and that it is eight weeks since the first threatening.

Katherin Davidson in Balmaduthy declared that upon a day keepin her cows from the said Margaret's hens, she was threatened be the said Margaret That she should have neither sock nor coulter goeing upon that ground, and that thereafter she lost ane ox that dyed suddenly and another ox that fell and brake his bones and that thereafter she challenged her son and found no more prejudice Agnes Davidson and Jannet Urquhart concurr in this declaration.

3. Alexander Macclay in Kilearnan did upon a certain day in September ninetie four Challenge Murrock Nickinairich her herd, for suffering her beasts to eat his fathers corns, Quairupon the wife appearing threatened him at a high rate and told him that that Challenge should be repented of by him, In a short time upon the morrow thereafter The said Alexander haveing fallen in ane extrairdinary and unnatural sickness he continued therin for fyve weeks time, but within a day thereafter havving gote a drink of milk from the said Murrock did immediately upon drinking therof recover his perfect health And further declared that he heard her flyte with two of her neigh-bour-wives, and threatened them that none of them should be upon that hill before that day twelve moneth and both the wives accordingly dyed as he saw. And at another time heard her flyte with Donald Maclady and that she threatened that before eight days she should make him repent his carryage, and accordingly within the eight days his best horse dyed of a strange sickness viz: by his tongue chafts and mouth being cult in twall (?) parts.

John Maclay in Redcastle informed likewise against the said Mary Micinnarich that upon his Challenging her for being the occasion of his brothers sickness he fell himself immediately unwell and continued so still till the minute The Lady Redcastle and Kenneth Mackenzie brother to Muirtown Called for her and Challenged her and therafter he convalesced, besides she is still repute a rank witch.

CASE OF Mary Morison 1699

petition for Mary Morison alleged guilty of Witchcraft

The said day anent ane petition presented to the sd Lords be Mary Morisone spouse to ffrancis Duncan skiper in Greenock Shewing that where the Supplicant being upon the dilatione of Jannet Shaw Bargarans daughter lately possest to be ane of her tormenters was for her vindication oblidge to inact herself to appear and Undergoe a tryall befor their Lords When called for that effect And for the space of ten eight to come to Edinburgh and apply the Lords of privy Council for a tryall which their Lords were pleased to recomend to my Lord Advocat to prosecute betwixt and the fiftieth of November thereafter During which tyme the petitioner and her husband to their great losse stayed att Edinburgh and all that tyme noe informatione given in alike my Lord Advocat wrote to the severall presby teries in the west Country where she was borne and Constantly resided for informatione against her But none informing She did again apply to the Lords of his Majesties privy Council for getting up her husbands bond and for liberty to return home Accordingly the twenty second of the said month of November their Lords were pleased to allow her to retorne home and to gett up her husbands former bond and to renew the same to her selfe before the Lords of Justiciary to Undergoe a tryall As being Alleadged guilty of the abominable Cryme of Witchcraft how soon she should be informed against which accordingly was obeyed. Thereafter in Apryle sixteen nynty nyne there was ane Indytment raised against the petitioner before the sds Lords of Justiciary founded upon the said Jannet Shaw, Jannet Laird and Margaret Murdock (whom under their fitts of torment) their giving up the petitioner as ane of the tormenters. And a tryall apointed at Glasgow before the Saids Lords in May thereafter at which tyme the petitioner Compeired again Continued till october and then adjourned from Glasgow to Edinburgh to the fourth of december last which their Lords adjourned till this dyet All which dyets at Glasgow to the great loss of ther poor family and hazard of her life being very tender and infirme she keeped also her husband came to Eder & kept the dyets there and at each tyme to his great prejudice always renewed his bond for her Compearance And seeing it is very well proven by all persones of intire fame in the place of her birth and residence that she has been of undoubted good fame and reputatione during all her life and nowayes tainted with any public guilt or malifize to her neighbours either in their goods or goodname untill the forsaid possest persones in their fitts of torment did alleadge that the devil represented her as one of their tormenters All which they now after their recovery to health again doe utterly dissown Also it is expected from the precognition taken that nothing will be found against her in the least to the detriment of her untainted reputatione All that the witnesses depone being only upon what they heard from the saids tormented possest persones whill in their fitts which by law are reprobate and that it is beyond measure hard to keep the petitioner under such a process as being alleadged guilty of the forsaid heinous and abominable Crime of Witchcraft soe disgracefull to her selfe and posterity without a tryall now after soe long dependence And Adjournments to her great greife and losse near to the utter ruin of her poor family Therefore Craving the Saids Lords would be pleased Either to appoint my Lord Advocat to insist presently against her or else to give her the benefite of Law and their Lords daylie practise of deserting the dyet that thereby she may be restored to her wonted fame and reputatione The Lords Justice Clerk and Commissioners of Justiciary with consent of his Majesties Advocat and sollicitor And for severall good causes moveing them Deserted and be thir presents Deserts the dyet against the said Mary Morison Simplicitur Whereupon Sir David Shaw advocat as pro locutour for the said Mary Morison asked and tooke instruments and protested for the Cautioners releise which the said Lords Admitted and hereby admitts.

The admissability of women witnesses

SRO: JC2/14 pp. 259-260

A debate anent Receaving women to be witness' in ane exculpa(tio)n

November 1674

My Lord Advocat alleadged that Ailison Ker nor no woman cane be witness' because by the uncontraverted lawe and pract'qs of Scotland women cannot be witness' no in civillibus and fare lesse in criminibus except in the caice of treason and some fewe excepted caices and occult crymes which are speciallie priviledged And as this is undoubted lawe and pract'q It is also clear by a statut of the Lords of Session and this is urged not so much in relation to this caice as the preparative and in relation to the generall Interst of the kingdome And wheras it is pretendit that the women cannot be witness' for the persewars yet they may be witness' to prove a defence and exculpation It is answered that the distinction is without warrant et ubi lex non distinguit nec nos And if women be testes Inhabiles as to the persewer and in behalf not only of the privat interest of parties And lykwayes of the publict Interest and concernment of the King and the country and his Majesties Advocat persewing upon the account of that interest multo minus cane they be habiles in behalf of the defender and as to the pretence of the civill lawe and practice of any other nation it is of no weight seeing we are to be ruled by the lawe of Scotland And by expresse act of parliament It is pro vydit that we should not be ruled by any other lawes And it cannot be Instanced that upon a debate it wes ever found that women should be receaved witness' in behalf of any defender And it is humblie con ceaved that in a caice which may be of so much consequence that the Lords will judge according to lawe standing and will not make new lawes which is only proper to King and parliament.

Sir Andrew Birnie answers that the habilitie of women to be witness' is acknowledged to be consonant to the common lawe and then being not statut forbidding women and Incapacitating them to be witness' it is warrantable by our lawe to recurre to the common lawe where statut is deficient especiallie when it cane be Instanced that women have bein frequentlie receaved in this court as witness' in capitall crymes and in occultis as in the caice of Suintoun And the poynt wherenant this witnes is to be examined does not concerne the rancounter but that which is altogether forraigne and extrinsicle to witt that it being most dark and dubious and occultissimum who wes the aggressor ther does a stronge presumption aryse from the last words of the defunct wherof thir women were witness' and who are most proper to be about a dyeing person And the pannall being in defence is more favourable then the persewer himself who having cited women as witness' is in pessima fide to object ag't them in the exculpation

The interloquiter

The Lords in regard they find there wes no penuria testium tempore mortis they therfor refuse to admitt the women witness'

3. 9 Geo. II c. 5

from The Statutes at Large, London 1764, Vol.VI, pp.206-7

An act to repeal the statute made in the first year of the reign of King James the First, intituled, An act against conjuration, witchcraft, and dealing with evil and wicked spirits, except so much thereof as repeals an act of the fifth year of the reign of Queen Elizabeth, Against conjurations, inchantments, and witchcrafts, and to repeal an act passed in the Parliament of Scotland in the ninth parliament of Queen Mary, intituled, Anentis witchcraftis, and for punishing such persons as pretend to exercise or use any kind of witchcraft, sorcery, inchantment, or conjuration.

Be it enacted by the king's most excellent majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, That the statue made in the first year of the reign of King James the First, intituled, An Act against conjuration, witchcraft, and dealing with evil and wicked spirits, shall, from the twenty fourth day of June next, be repealed and utterly void and of none effect (except so much thereof as repeals the statute made in the fifth year of the reign of Queen Elizabeth, intituled, An act against conjurations, inchantments, and witchcrafts.

II. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That from and after the said twenty fourth day of June, the act passed in the parliament of Scotland in the ninth parliament of Queen Mary, intituled, Anentis witchcrafts, shall be and is hereby repealed.

III. And be it further enacted, That from and after the said twenty fourth day of June, no prosecution, suit, or proceeding, shall be commenced or carried on against any person or persons for witchcraft, sorcery, inchantment, or conjuration, or for charging another with any such offence, in any court whatsoever in Great Britain.

IV. And for the more effectual preventing and punishing any pretences to such arts or powers as are beforementioned, whereby ignorant persons are frequently deluded and defrauded; be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That if any person shall, from and after the twenty fourth day of June, pretend to exercise or use any kind of witchcraft, sorcery, inchantment, or conjuration, or undertake to tell fortunes, or pretend from his or her skill or knowledge in any occult or crafty science, to discover where or in what manner any goods or chattles, supposed to have been stolen or lost, may be found; every person so offending, being therof lawfully convicted on indictment or information in that part of Great Britain called England, or on indictment or libel in that part of Great Britain called Scotland, shall for every such offence suffer imprisonment by the space of one whole year without bail or mainprize, and once in every quarter of the said year in some market town of the proper county upon the market day there stand openly on the pillory by the space of one hour, and also shall (if the court by which such judgement shall be given shall think fit) be obliged to give sureties for his or her good behaviour, in such sum, and for such time, as the said court shall judge proper according to the circumstances of the offence, and in such case shall be further imprisoned until such sureties be given.

9 Geo. II c. 5. was repealed in 1951, by the Fraudulent Mediums Act.

SECTION IV.

SOURCE MATERIAL

This section contains

1. The abbreviations for all source material mentioned in the case lists. Many of these are local histories which have only one or two cases of witchcraft. The main sources are listed separately on page 2 in addition to appearing below.
2. References for those marked Gilmore or Truckell.
3. A list of manuscript sources in the Scottish Record Office for centrally administered trials.
4. Printed sources for centrally administered trials.
5. Short list of books on Scottish witchcraft. This list excludes recent popular literature on Scottish witchcraft which is not based on any new research. It also excludes all general works on witchcraft unless they have a considerable section on Scotland, or unless, like Sir Walter Scott's Letters on Demonology, are written from a Scottish perspective.

No attempt has been made to list the local source material. Researchers should start with J.M. Thomson's The Public Records of Scotland (Glasgow 1922) and supplement this with enquiries at the Scottish Record Office in Edinburgh where a new guide is being prepared. As noted (p.x), a survey of all legal and ecclesiastical sources for crime in the early modern period is currently being made by Bruce Lenman and Geoffrey Parker of the Department of Modern History, University of St. Andrews.

INDEX OF NAMED INDIVIDUALS

The arrangement of cases under types of court and source in Section I means that some individuals appear more than once. Where these are matched with certainty the references are collated. Where it is clear that different individuals are concerned, or where there is any doubt about the matching, the name is replicated as appropriate. Further research will certainly produce more matching cases.
